

TOKYO TATEMONO's

The YNK Hub

YNK The YNK found just in front of Tokyo Station stands for Yaesu, Nihonbashi, and Kyobashi. This area was bustling with craftsmen and merchants who supplied food and commodities to Edo Castle from around the country. Tokyo Tatemono is active in this area with the goal of impacting the world through innovation, and is recruiting partners with the "You Never Know till you try!" spirit to create the future together. The YNK Hub welcomes visitors to meet and network. Come to learn about and enjoy the essence of YNK culture.

Tokyo Tatemono is the oldest general real estate developer in Japan. It was founded in 1896 by Zenjiro Yasuda, who was also the founder of the former Yasuda Financial Group (Zaibatsu). Tokyo Tatemono aims to flexibly keep pace with wide-ranging changes while addressing social issues and expanding its business with a focus on the YNK area. For 127 years since it opened its doors for business in YNK, Tokyo Tatemono has promoted area development for sustainable growth.
